

STAT

Approved For Release 2001/03/02 : CIA-RDP70-00000

STATINL

THE PRESIDENT... they would... COMMISSION AT ITS FIRST SESSION... acted in his own lunatic loneliness there is no proof of a conspiracy, either foreign or domestic, to do away with Kennedy. The report will contain only one real surprise, a heavy hint that Oswald was the sniper who tried to put a bullet into former General Edwin Walker, a right-winging malcontent, in his Dallas home last April 10. Investigators have discovered evidence in Oswald's own handwriting that links him to the attempt on Walker. Moreover, Oswald's Russian wife, Marina, recalled that on the night of April 10, Oswald hastened into their apartment excitedly to tell her he had just tried to kill Walker. When she asked why, Oswald vaguely replied that it was because he had wanted to watch him on television. "I may not nibble at pieces," As the unruly bits and pieces of Lee Oswald's life continued to come to light last week, there were a few kind words for him from his mother, Mrs. Lee Oswald, such a fine, high-acting to honor a grandson... From Left to Right: Central Intelligence Agency Chief Allen W. Dulles, Louisiana's Democratic Representative Hale Boggs, Kentucky's Republican Senator John Sherman Cooper, Chairman Warren, Georgia's Democratic Senator Richard Russell, New York Banker John D. McCloy, and Michigan's Republican Representative Gerald Ford.

INVESTIGATIONS "A Sad & Solemn Duty"

The seven-member Warren Commission appointed by President Johnson to investigate the assassination of John Kennedy last week, but not barely its met twice in Washington's National Archives building performed a few routine organizational chores, voted to ask Congress for subpoena powers, and called it a week. "This commission has a sad and solemn duty to perform," said Chief Justice Earl Warren, chairman of the investigating panel. But he added glumly, "we are operating somewhat in the dark." A first step toward getting the inquiry off the ground would be the receipt of an FBI report on the circumstances surrounding Kennedy's death and the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald by Dallas Strip Joint Owner Jack Ruby. The report was expected to be forwarded to the Warren commission sometime this week. It will indicate that: 1) Oswald, acting in his own lunatic loneliness, was indeed the President's assassin; 2) Oswald's executioner, Ruby, and Ruby did not know each other; and 3)

MRS. MARGUERITE OSWALD

Approved For Release 2001/03/02 : CIA-RDP70-00000